

Disclaimer

The information and opinions presented here are meant not as comprehensive representation and can not replace an individual consultation related to the characteristics of circumstances. We have taken great care with the examination of the information on this website, however, we do not accept any responsibility for errors or omissions or for results, which come from the use of this information. In addition IQ Treuhand GmbH is not liable for contents of external internet sites, which can be reached via this website or for contents from external websites which have a link to our website.

The transmission of information over the internet is transnational, unencrypted and is in principle accessible to everyone. It is neither safe nor confidential. There is a danger that during the use of the internet a third party enters into your computer without being noticed. During the use of internet viruses can spread on your computer. IQ Treuhand GmbH disclaims all responsibility for the usage of internet.